CONSIDERING IMPORTANT QUESTIONS. A CONFERENCE BETWEEN THE MANAGERS OF THE ELEVATED ROADS-PROTEST FROM THE FLOUR MERCHANTS-THE WABASH PRESIDENCY-AT-

TEMPTING TO RECONSTRUCT A RAILROAD. Several conferences have been held between the committees of the two elevated roads, and the main features of a plan to avoid danger from crossing tracks have been agreed upon President Garrison yesterday denied that the Metropolitan Road had agreed to surrender its east side branch. Flour merchants protested against the action of the railroads on storage of flour. Cyrus W. Field accepted the Presidency of the Wabash Railroad. It is expected that the reconstruction of the Obio and Mississippi Railway will be accomplished soon.

CROSSING OF TRACKS, The conference between the committees of the New-York and the Metropolitan Elevated Railroads was continued yesterday. At a brief meeting at the office of the New-York Company there were present, besides the members of the committees, David Dudley Field, counsel of the New-York Company, and John K. Porter, counsel of the Metropolitan Road. The committees met again in the afternoon at the office of the Metropolitan avoid the danger from crossing tracks are understood to have been agreed to, but all the details have not been arranged.

Witham R. Gerrison, president of the Metropolitan Company, denied emphatically that that company had agreed to surrender its East Side Line.

"The published statement that we have consented to abandon that branch is wholly false," he said. "I should wish to leave the city if that report were true. No, no; too many assurances have been given the public in regard to the building of the East Side Road to make such a plan possible. The contracts for the building of that read have been made; we have promised to pay millions of dollars for its completion. It will be built and the millions will be paid. The preposed plan for obviating the danger of crossing tracks concerns mainly those parts of the route where the company is empowered to use, in common with the other company, the tracks of the New-York Elevated Road. I believe that some plan will be arranged that will be mutually advantareous to both companies and avoid all danger. That plan has not been matured; every point agreed upon only leads to other questions that involve discussion and consideration.

"The fact that the contisel of the companies have been present to-day, and that some of the details of the plan have been submitted to them, is explained readily. We do not know fully what arrangements we may be entitled under our charters to make, and therefore these matters are left for the decision of counsel before they can be determined."

The committees separated early in the afternoon, but it is said that they will reassemble to-day.

THE WABASH RAILROAD PRESIDENCY. CYRUS W. FIELD'S ACCEPTANCE OF THE POSITION At a meeting of the directors of the Wabash Railroad Company, Cyrus W. Field yesterday accepted the office of President, made vacant by the recent resignation of Commodore C. K. Garrison, Mr. Field, as conditions of his acceptance, reserved the privilege of resigning whenever he could find a practical and trustworthy railroad man to take his place; until that time he should serve the company without compensation. The second condition stipulated that all the suits against the company should lated that all the suits against the company should be fought to the end, whether brought in New-York, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois or elsewhere, and that if, in the course of litigation, it should be discovered that the snits had been brought to depress the value of the company's securities, or to speculate in its stock and bonds, a suit for conspiracy should be brought by the company against the persons im-plicated in the scheme, and that in such action David Dudley Field should be retained by the com-pany as its counsel.

It was said yesterday by a person prominently associated with the company that the acceptance by Mr. Field of the presidency of the company "meant business." "I will not say that it means war," he business." "I will not say that it means war," he added, "but it means business—the interests of the Wabash Road and nothing else. Mr. Field has won a large reputation for sagacity in the telegraph business and in the development and management of the Elevated Railroad. A breader field is now opened to him, in which he will gain, I hope, new honor."

Another person largely interested in the company

Another person largely interested in the company said. "I have felt no doubt about Mr. Field's final acceptance of the office. He has made at a condition that David Dudley Field should be counsel to the company. That may not be a bid for new business for his brother, but then they are certainly on very good terms. He proposes also to hold the position until he finds a better man. As that seems to be left entirely to his judgment at may be a long time before the office is again vacant."

FLOUR MERCHANTS INDIGNANT.

ACTION OF THE RAILEOADS RELATING TO STORAGE OF FLOUR DENOUNCED-A COMMITTEE APPOINT-ED TO CONFER WITH THE BAILROADS.

A meeting of the flour trade was held at the Produce Exchange yesterday morning for the purpose of discussing the action of the general freight agents of the New-York Central, New-York, Lake Erie and Western, and Pennsylvania Railroads. in limiting the time for the removal of flour from the place of arrival to four days, or ordering it to be stored at the risk or expense of the owner. Heretofore flour has been allowed to remain without expense for an indefinite period, or until it was sold, in order to allow the merchants to compete with other points having the same privileges. R. B. Livermore, chairman of the Flour Committee, stated that the committee had met with the agents of the railroads at different Committee, stated that the committee had met with the agents of the railroads at different times, and that propositions were made to consider flour under two heads; lighterage free for fifteen days, and dock deliveres from five to seven days. The railroad officers declined to accept the propositions, and said that they would hold a meeting and sobmit the results to the trade. Nothing further was heard from the railroads mitd the recent notice was sent to the Produce Exchange.

S. A. Sawyer, of Sawyer, Wallace & Co., said that the order would operate seriously against the export trade. As sailing vessels were not always ready to take in freight within eight days even after agreeing to carry it, the holder would be put to the expense of storing the flour at a cost of 10 cents a barriel. S. S. Carl', of Carl & Gardner, said that while the railroads probably had been imposed upon in a few instances, in making this exchange they had gone from one extreme to the other. There were 250,000 barrels of flour now on the docks, which not withstanding the agreement made with the Western, shapers that it could remain on the docks until required, must now be removed before. Monday next, and to remove it would cause an additional loss in sales and additional expense. J. B. Burnett and others spoke, saying that the question was a serious one to the trade, and should be promptly considered. It was unanimously resolved that S. Carli, S. A. Sawyer, J. B. Burnett, C. Pariso, R. B. Livermore and Franklin Edson should constitute a committee to confer with the freight agents of the Erie, Pennsylvania, and New-York Central Roads, asking them modification of their order.

Superintendent Grant immediately communicated with the freight agents of the Eric, Pennsylvania, and New-York Central Roads, asking them to appoint a day upon which the Exchange committee could meet them in conference. One of the committee stated that the flour trade would be willing to compromise with the railroads it they would allow the trade from seven to ten days free lighterage, and from five to seven days for dock deliveries.

MOVED TO GREENWOOD. Several weeks ago a convict in Newcastle-on-Type confessed that he murdered a man and threw im into the river at the Wall Street Ferry. It was suspected that his aim was to get a free passage to this country, of which he was a native. The police, in investigating the case, learned that the body of F. C. Nash, was found at the Wall Street Ferry in September, 1878. A description of this man's clothes was published, and only a few days ago came to the notice of William Fanning, book-keeper for Cobanks & Theall, boiler-makers at No. 67 Bethune-st. Mr. Fanning called at the Coroner's office yesterday and identified the writing among Nash's effects as that of the bookkeeper whom he succeeded. He told the following story: Frederick C. Nash, once bookkeeper for Cobanks & Theall, formerly had considerable money. His mother and sister died and were buried in a lot owned by him in Greenwood Cemetery. Unfortunate speculations caused the loss of his money and bad habits the loss of his situation. It was learned that he had become an outcast, but his fate was not known to his friends and former employers until the publication of the notice led them to fear that he had been murdered. A scarch of the records at the Coroner's office, however, showed that through some blunder the property was not that of the man found at Wallest, but that of Frederick Nash, the former bookkeeper, who died on August 10, 1878, while asking charity in the kitchen of No. 18 East Seventeenth-st. He was only twenty-seven years of age.

DISCUSSING METHODS OF EDUCATION.

THE CONSOLIDATION OF COLORED SCHOOLS VOTED DOWN IN THE BOARD OF EDUCATION.

The Board of Education yesterday received a report from Mrs. Mary McCloskey, principal of the Primary Department of School No. 17, in regard to the recent fire. President Wood stated that the courage, coolness and nerve of Mrs. McCloskey and her female assistants prevented a great sacrifice of human life, and possibly a repetition of the Greenwich-st, or Brooklyn Theatre horror, and a resolution of thanks was tendered to Mrs. McCloskey and her assistants for courage and fidelity on that occasion. President Wood mentioned Mary A. Burr, Mary McGuire, Barbara Rothschild, Mrs. West and Mrs. Johnson as the teachers worthy of special mention.

The report of the Committee on Colored Schools on the plan of adding a female grammar department to Colored School No. 3, in West Forty-firstst., near Broadway, and closing Colored School No. 4, in Seventeenth-st., was the special order of the day. Commissioner Walker, in opposing the report, said that the entire system of sevarate colored schools was a relic of the days of slavery, and he was ready to vote to abolish all colored schools and allow white and colored children to sit together.

and allow white and colored children to sit together.

Commissioner West thought that closing this school would create the absurdity of making colored children walk from the First Ward to Fortyfirst-st. Commissioner Watson was in favor of abolishing the color line, and allowing the colored children to enter the same school buildings as the whites. In this case he claimed that the colored people would be robbed of a dear right at no saving of expense. The resolution was defeated by a vote of 11 to 7.

PLANS TO RESCUE JERSEY CITY FROM FINANCIAL

The second conference of the city officers, the members of the Board of Finance and Taxation, and the officers of the local banking institutions was held last evening at Boornem's Hall, Jersey City. The committee appointed last week to consider the reduction of salaries reported that its members had carefully examined each department of the city Government. They recommended that all of the boards should meet in the City Hall, and that the City Clerk act as clerk to them; that the City Collector should assume the duties of the Water Registrar; that the duties of the Corporation Attorney should be performed by the Corporation Counsel; that all honorary positions, such as Mayor, Commissioner, etc., should be without salary, and that the principals of the different schools should teach classes so that the number of teachers could

The report also recommended the abolishment of the Normal School and the teaching of German, Greek, Latin, French and drawing in the public schools. A large reduction in the number of teachers, firemen, policemen and clerks in the several boards was suggested, as well as a cutting down of certain expenses as follows: the Board of Fire Commissioners from $87,050 to $42,240; the Board of Police Commissioners from $87,050 to $42,240; the Board of Police Commissioners from $15,024 to $86,234; the Board of Public Works from $55,398 to $23,870; the Board of Education from $187,873 to $148,469; the Board of Finance and Taxation from $58,614 to $29,760. An increase in the salary list of the Board of Aldermen from $13,000 to $15,550 was proposed. The present total of yearly expenditures is $566,989, and the proposed reductions would make it only $346,123. The report was adopted after considerable discussion, and referred to the Board of Finance and Taxation, with the recommendation that the suggestions be carried out. report also recommended the abolishment

SUNDAY OBSERVANCE IN NEWARK.

It is stated that the Liquor and Lager Beer Dealers' Association will demand the fullest enforcement of the Sunday law in Newark, if the Law and Order Association succeeds in closing up the drinking saloons and gardens. This would prevent the running of horse-cars and steamboats, and the sale of anything on Sunday, for the old State law has never been repealed. Chief of Police

State law has never been repealed. Chief of Police Meldrum states that he will carry out the instructions of the Mayor and enforce the law. About fifty complaints have already been made against saloons violating the law last Sunday. Chief Meldrum will also make complaint against the proprietors of the Academy of Music, where "Pinafore" was sang in German on Sunday night.

Yesterday about twenty-five members of the Citizens' Protective Association (composed of men engaged in the liquor and beer trade), accompanied by their counsel and four German Aidermen, waited on Mayor Yates and urged the enforcement of the Sunday law without discrimination. Mayor Yates expressed his desire to deal impartially with all, and stated that he would consider the matter and act as duty directs. This action of the opponents of the Sunday law is the result of a conference which decided that the enforcement of the Sunday law would make it odious, and that the public would demand its repeal or non-enforcement.

She swore that he was long attentive, and love was plainly the incentive; he sang and played upon the Zither and sat upon the sofa with her, and laid his tawny hand in hern, but shortly matters took a turn, and when her heart and hand were plinhted she saw she suddenly was slighted. In court was Robert; then arose he and swore he never courted Josie, and never papped the question—never; and then he said, "Well—hardly ever." She used to suffer from dejection; he held her hand—'twas for protection; he acted as her parent rather; he went just sofa and no father; at last she tried to make him own he had meant to make it matrimony. This he denied; she cried, "I'm jilted"; he talked; she wept; he went; she wilted; she wrote "perfidious wretch, I'd bave you return at one the things I gave you—that book, that smoking cap, that motto, 'God bless our Home'—oh, Rob, he'd ought to." GEORGE H. BOKER URGES LOYAL MEN TO OPEN THEIR EYES TO WHAT IS PASSING AT WASHING-

Prom his address of welcome to Governor Hoyt, Philadelphia, April 15.

The Union League has never greatly concerned itself about polities. Local issues, nominations and appointments to office have been left to the discretion of our members as eftizens. In grand polities, however—in those things which concern the nation or the State—we have never hesitated to act, and I trust that the day is far distant when the Union League shall stand idly by to see political wrong or folly hold a triumph either in the counsels of the nation or of the State. If the principles to defend which this association was formed — are again to be assailed, and by the very ingrates whom they once ground almost to powder. I can promise that the Union League will be ready once more to planned into action, to make its fealess voice beard from one end of the land to the other, to make its influence felt in every department of politics that it can reach, and if the sorrowful need may be—which God avert!—that it will be equally prepared to gird on its armor and to marshal its armed legions as of old. — Of the Democratic majority in Congress two-thirds of the whole are representatives of the South, of what they call the "Solid South," the men of one idea, who, returning from their bankshment, like the French Bourbons, have learned nothing and forzotten nothing.

There are the men who govern the Democratic party, and through it will govern the country until the eyes of the loyal men are opened, and you teach these once more mistaken men that a Solid South means also a Solid North, and that the latter term implies and enforces the confusion and destruction of their cuming schemes. Echember, these are the same men who, at the beginning of the rebeillen, told us that they would not live under the same government with us if we gave them a blank sheet of paper upon which to write their terms. They are changed in nothing save in this, they will now condescent to live with us lift they may govern the country to their own the roughlies when led them victoriously through the reprocessor and understood to what measures the D
